Not illustrated. 1920 Excerpt: .spruce and balsam, approximately 100 million cords on licensed Crown lands, 30 million cords on unlicensed Crown lands and 25 million cords on privatelyowned lands, or a total of 155 million cords, shown as follows: --According to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the 1918 cut of spruce and balsam in Quebec for pulpwood and lumber, was nearly 3 million cords. Of this amount, 885,772 cords was exported to the UnitedJStates and may be credited to lands in private ownership. Also, a considerable volume of the wood from privately-owned lands was manufactured in -Canada. Taking the situation as a whole, with 155 million cords of actually available spruce and balsam, on the basis of delivery at the mill, and a cut in 1918 of around 3 million cords, it is estimated that Quebec has, at the present time, the equivalent of 52 yearso supply. Beyond this 52 years supply of available pulpwood, at the 1918 rate of cutting, dependence must necessarily be placed upon annual growth for the continuance of operations. As a matter of fact, the rate of cutting is increasing steadily, due to new developments and the extension of existing plants. In addition to the accelerated rate of cutting, it must be borne in mind that some fires will inevitably occur and that there will be serious losses from insects and decay. Balsam is particularly susceptible to attacks by the budworm and to injury by butt-rot and heart-rot. It is estimated, for example, that around...
